

Digging up plants for food was not easy work in prehistoric times, especially when you only had a wooden stick or stone tools to work with! This woman is digging up the base of a sotol plant which, when cooked, is a sweet high-energy food. Drawing by Ken Brown.

